Dear Valued Customer,

Thank you for being a loyal AT&T Residential Customer in Colorado. It is with regret that we inform you that AT&T has asked the Colorado Public Utilities Commission (PUC) for approval to discontinue offering basic residential local telephone service in your area effective on April 4, 2005. To make the transition as easy as possible for AT&T's customers, we have made arrangements to move both your AT&T local and AT&T long distance service(s) to McLeodUSA at no cost to you as of April 19, 2005.

Important Facts About this Transition:

- Your local and long distance pricing, terms, and conditions for your current services will not change.
- Your existing home telephone number will remain the same.
- You will not be assessed a charge when your local and long distance services are transitioned to McLeodUSA.
- If you have chosen to have a carrier freeze placed on your local residential service account, the account will still be transferred to McLeodUSA. You must arrange to have a new freeze placed on the account with McLeodUSA, as it will not be done automatically.
- You have the right to choose a different carrier for your services. If you wish to choose a different carrier, you will need to contact that carrier prior to April 18, 2005. If you are an AT&T customer on the date of the transfer and you have not informed AT&T that you have made arrangements to switch to a carrier other than McLeodUSA, your services will automatically be transferred and your account assigned to McLeodUSA.

Please be assured that basic local telephone service will still be available to you whatever the outcome of AT&T's requested action.

You will continue to receive the highest level of customer service support before and after the transfer of your service. If you have any questions, please contact Customer Care Representatives at 1-800-528-7940. Customer Care will handle your pending questions, or any concerns that may arise during the transfer of your service. McLeodUSA will handle any complaints filed or raised against AT&T prior to or during the transfer.

AT&T has sincerely appreciated and valued its relationship with you. We are confident that McLeodUSA will continue to provide you world-class service after this transition.

Sincerely,
